

MISSOULA ART MUSEUM
ANNUAL REPORT 2009

MAM MISSION: THE MISSOULA ART MUSEUM SERVES THE PUBLIC BY ENGAGING AUDIENCES AND ARTISTS IN THE EXPLORATION OF CONTEMPORARY ART RELEVANT TO THE COMMUNITY, STATE AND REGION.

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR | laura j. millin

In the past year, the new MAM continued its emergence from the transformative process of the museum’s expansion and renovation, completed in the fall of 2006. Benchmarks of progress included the completion of a three year strategic plan by board and staff, and a transition in board leadership. We felt a great sense of loss this year in the absence of Martin Burke following his retirement from the Board after 15 years of visionary service. Kindly, Marshall Delano agreed to serve this last year as Immediate Past President, which will complete 12 years of dedicated service. We are grateful for the indomitable spirit of Sharon Snavelly as she assumes the role of president and we welcome returning member Corky Clairmont and new member Beth Brennan to the board.

In building the new MAM we promised to expand the scope of our programming to include more art and artists from the greater region. Last year we were proud to present Tina Hoggatt, Jeffry Mitchell, Marie Watt, and Joe Feddersen, all from the Pacific Northwest. The New Spaces/New Visions series of site-specific installations, which was made possible by a grant from the Andy Warhol Foundation, concluded with the encompassing, interactive environment created by Marie Watt in the Lynda M. Frost Contemporary American Indian Art Gallery and spilling into the atrium of the Andrew Precht Addition.

We also promised to expand and exhibit MAM’s permanent collection of art more actively in the new building and did so last year with six collection exhibitions. Three major acquisitions were made from MAM exhibitions, prominent artists from outside Montana: John Armstrong, Joe Feddersen and Lois Conner. MAM’s commitment to contemporary artists of Montana was fulfilled with a significant acquisition of works by the late, Gennie DeWeese, thanks to the extraordinary generosity of the DeWeese family. The Contemporary Collectors Circle, a new membership program, had its first collection acquisition meeting in December and selected a beautiful oil painting by local favorite Stephanie Frostad.

Clearly, MAM is fulfilling its promise to the public we so energetically serve, and our community of supporters shares our passion.

Modern life is characterized by a high level of stress for almost everyone. Under these conditions, the arts play an ever more important role. The beauty, excitement, and inspiration we feel when we see great art lifts our soul and renews our spirit.

We at MAM work continuously to make art available to everyone. We do not charge admission and instead rely on museum memberships, donations, and our annual benefit auction to pay our expenses.

Thanks to the generous contributions of our supporters we think we have the finest museum in Montana. Of course, a

When surveying the lists of exhibitions and artists, it is important to realize that over 300 artists were involved in exhibitions during the year. By examining exhibitions and reviewing highlights, insight can be gained into the nature and spirit of MAM.

Within the 27 exhibitions hosted by MAM, the vast majority of artists hailed from the immediate region. In addition, MAM featured a handful of contemporary expressions from afar like Persian Visions and for a small minority of our exhibitions, we have hosted traveling exhibitions created outside the institution like Gaylen Hansen and Joe Feddersen. MAM also invited guest curator Beth Sellars, of Seattle, to jury the first ever Montana Triennial.

The mix and variety of contemporary exhibitions continues to reflect the character of the institution. The mission continues to guide and provide parameters for exhibition development. Some exhibitions have been small and intimate like David Shaner from the Collection and Screen Prints from the Collection featured in the library study exhibitions, while some are large and have more of a presence like the Encaustic Invitational or Elk Dogs. Increasingly as the collection evolves and grows, we have relied on it more heavily, having an ever more important presence in the exhibition programming and notably lending fine exhibition space is key to providing a great art experience, but without staff who really care about the art we show and how it is presented, there would be little enjoyment for our visitors. We have been very fortunate to attract and retain top professional staff.

The museum also plays a key role in supporting and highlighting the work of local artists. They, in turn, support and sustain us. This relationship remains critical for the MAM.

Please continue to give us your suggestions on ways to improve the museum and experiences we offer.

to outside institutions for exhibitions. There are 44 exhibitions listed below where MAM has been involved in one way or another.

Remarkably, three exhibition catalogues were completed in-house in the last year including: John Armstrong: Engaged Abstraction, MA Papanek-Miller: A Snowman Cares For Our Memory of Water, and MAM's 2009 Montana Triennial. In addition, one publication New Spaces/New Visions is in production as this reporting period draws to an end, completing a multi-year, five part installation series supported through the Andy Warhol Foundation.

The season culminated with the opening of the first ever Montana Triennial initiated and hosted by MAM. Of the 60 artists accepted into the exhibition, 40 attended the opening. The 88 works included in the exhibition reflected the variety and vitality of the visual arts in Montana. As the museum has grown, so too has the desire to develop exhibitions and programs that are stimulating, diverse and flexible. Unsolicited, professional, proposals for exhibitions continue to increase, as we received over 300 proposals in the last year. This is a testimony the reputation of the institution. By reviewing these highlights, we can gain insight into the personality of the institution and the character of the community that hosts them.

The Missoula community continues to regard MAM as it as its source for high quality art experiences in the community. MAM provides highly qualified and friendly teachers offering art instruction for budding artists of all ages, and a range of lectures that bring both a regional and international perspective to contemporary art, all of which is free or low priced. Thanks to the generous financial support of patrons for MAM's Scholarship Fund, we were able to provide more than a dozen individual and families with partial or full scholarships.

In the galleries MAM is striving to present interpretive information that is approachable and stimulating to visitors. This past year MAM has contracted with Guide by Cell to be the first museum in Montana to offer cell phone tours to its visitors. Museum visitors can use their cell phones to call a local number and access the artists or curators speaking about the artwork on exhibit.

MAM continues to offer free after school art classes through the Flagship Program at Hawthorne and Franklin Elementary schools and CS Porter Middle School with support from a 21st Century Learning Center Grant administered by the Missoula County School District. This year MAM also brought free art classes to Lowell School's Flagship Program with a grant received from the Macy's foundation.

Now in its 22nd year, the Fifth Grade Annual Art Experience, co-produced by the Art Associates of Missoula was a huge success. This year's fifth grade program focused on the exhibition of M.A. Papanek-Miller. Papanek-Miller's complex, layered imagery of toys, animals, and nursery rhymes thoroughly engaged the fifth graders. The program received outstanding reviews from teachers and students alike. Over 20 volunteers contributed to the success of this program as Art Guides (docents) and Art Helpers (those who help with the art project).

REGISTRAR | ted hughes

Fiscal year 2008/2009 was a typically eventful one at the Missoula Art Museum. In addition to collection acquisitions, events, and the addition of new volunteers, long serving Curator of Collections and Registrar Jennifer Reifsneider stepped down after 11 years with MAM to pursue graduate study. After a competitive interview process, Ted Hughes was hired as Registrar.

The permanent collection continued to grow, steered by the Collection Committee, with generous donations and careful purchases. Acquisitions were clearly guided by MAM's collection mission by focusing on art relevant to the culture of the American West with an emphasis on contemporary Montana artists. In addition, to further bond with the community, the committee always takes a close look at artworks from MAM exhibits. Donations include: 30 paintings from the estate of Montana artist Gennie DeWeese, three ceramic works by University of Montana MFA ceramicists Hak kyun Kim and Alex Kraft, twelve photographs from the Wide Open exhibit by Lois Conner, a woodworking by Jerry McCauley, a painting by Kristi Hager, and a painting by Kerri Rosenstein. Works purchased include a beaded textile by Molly Murphy, a painting by Stephanie Frostad, a glass work by Joe Feddersen, and a monoprint by John Armstrong.

Acquisitions in progress include Beth Lo's ceramic piece All Look Same, using the Ursula Reiker Memorial funds, the purchase of Charles Nichols' three-movement musical composition Beneath the Veneer, and five large Anne Appleby paintings donated by the artist.

In addition, budget acquisition income grew with a $7,000 donation from the Pleiades Foundation for the acquisition of Joe Feddersen's Fish Trap II.

It was also an eventful year for collections oriented events, especially for the newly minted Contemporary Collectors Circle, a group of collectors and art lovers whose dues go directly towards collection acquisition. In July, museum members that had donated $250.00 or more to MAM were treated to a behind-the-scenes look at how museum professionals create and display exhibits, guided by curator Steve Glueckert and registrar Jenn Reifsneider, and focusing on the collection show Our Familiar. In September, members of the Contemporary Collectors Circle were welcomed at Kim Reineking's office to view his excellent art collection. In December, the CCC gathered to use their funds to select Stephanie Frostad's painting The Invention of Sorrow, and in June, CCC members lunched and chatted with 2009 Montana Triennial judge Beth Sellars.

As usual, the Missoula community stepped up to help MAM manage its collection by volunteering. In August of 2008, MAM acquired a collections assistant through the program "Experience Works," a national, charitable, community-based organization that helps seniors get the training they need to find good jobs in their local communities. Charles is paid by the program to work 20 hours a week at the MAM, assisting the registrar and curatorial staff, with 876 hours logged to date. Other volunteers logged another 96 hours helping the completion of a full inventory of the Permanent Collection and a full inventory of the Goldberg Library, currently in progress. This has also expanded the collection information available to the general public on MAM's website.

DEVELOPMENT & MEMBERSHIP | nici holt cline

An interesting year with an uncertain economy and fear regarding the financial future, fiscal year 2008/2009 was an unpredictable ride. Overall, we were heartened by the incredible outpouring of support from our community.

Annual Fund

While gifts were smaller, we had more donors than ever before for our Annual Fund: 204 private donors, 67 business donors and 18 granting agencies gave to our effort of Art for All. In the end, we exceeded our goal of $125,000, finishing the year in the black. At year end, the MAM Annual Fund secured $139,000.

The campaign kicked-off with a celebration in September and concluded with the first Annual MAM Award party in May. We fêted Patricia and Aubrey Dunkum, honoring their 35 years of service and giving to the arts in Missoula.

Membership

MAM membership brought in $32,336 from 830 members (current at least one day during the fiscal year) and 1074 memberships (many paid dues twice during the fiscal year). These numbers fell below our projected numbers but in light of the recession, we understood this possible outcome. Artini continues to be a successful membership cultivation tool, bringing in 84 memberships.

Business Partnership

The MAM Business Partnership program is thriving. With the recession affecting corporate giving, MAM developed creative exchanges with businesses, maximizing the return on investment for all involved and costing very little out-of-pocket expense. Many were trades: MAM offered facility use, marketing and networking opportunities and name recognition in exchange for newspaper, radio and television advertising, food and wine for receptions. And many were cash sponsorships for exhibitions and programs such as US Bank sponsoring the auction (our first ever presenting sponsor) or Kibo Group Architecture PC sponsoring the Marie Watt exhibition. Overall, business partnership brought in $156,000 in in-kind donations and $15,000 in cash donations.

Annual Benefit Art Auction

The MAM 37th Annual Benefit Auction grossed $151,000 and netted $90,000. Sponsorships secured $20,670 of the revenue. Fund-a-Dream raised $12,500 to support MAM's new Education Fund, aimed at creating free and affordable classes and subsidizing scholarships for children and adults.

Now its fourth year, the Artini Auction was held at the MAM and, for the first time, embraced a new format. Still focusing on young collectors, artists were invited into the museum to create a work in one day, auctioned off that night. The event sold out, grossing $9,200 and netting $7,200 with Fund-a-Dream raising $1350 to support FY09 Artini programming that includes performances and educational lectures.
